

To be over the moon

To be over the moon: Really excited, looking forward to something.

Examples:

- (1) Her birthday was just days away, and the thought of her getting lots of birthday presents made her feel over the moon.
- (2) The family had never travelled by plane, so they were over the moon, when they travelled for the first time by plane.